foreword

The American Foundation for the Blind wishes to express its appreciation to the several hundred agencies, institutions, and organizations whose cooperation was received in the preparation of this eighteenth edition of the Directory of Agencies Serving the Visually Handicapped in the United States.

Listing in this Directory does not signify that an agency has been endorsed or evaluated by the American Foundation for the Blind. The only criteria for inclusion are incorporation as a nonprofit organization, the services of at least one full time paid executive and a board of directors; or establishment through local, state, or federal legislation.

Persons who desire evaluation of a particular organization should consult local or national organizations concerned with standards—for example, local Health and Welfare Councils, Better Business Bureaus, the National Information Bureau, or the National Accreditation Council for Agencies Serving the Blind and Visually Handicapped (NAC). Agencies accredited by NAC are noted in this Directory with an asterisk after their name and the phrase, "Accredited by NAC," at the end of the listing. Due to the increasing importance of accreditation, both as a way to establish standards and because both government and private funding sources are demanding it as a requirement for getting funds, we hope to expand this aspect of the Directory's services in future editions by listing all accreditations of individual agencies and schools.

If none of the above provide the information needed, the American Foundation for the Blind is also often able to give objective criteria with which one can make his own judgment.

At one time this Directory included listings for Canadian agencies and institutions for the visually handicapped. Several years ago, this practice had to be discontinued because of space and cost problems. Persons wishing information about services and agencies in Canada should contact the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, 1929 Bayview Avenue, Toronto 350, Canada. The telephone number is (416) 485-8644. Persons wishing information about services for the blind in other nations should contact the World Council for the Welfare of the Blind, 58 Avenue Bosquet, 75007 Paris, France. The telephone numbers are 705-40-57, 555-67-54.

It is also important to note that there are many volunteer and civic organizations and generic agencies not listed in this Directory that perform services for visually handicapped persons. And, unless the persons' problem is directly related to his visual handicap, he should be encouraged to make use of the same community resources as nonhandicapped persons.

M. Robert Barnett
Executive Director
